8. See Gerald Jackson

Art and fashion.

White Columns, 91 Horatio Street, through May 15.

I could see a late-in-life MacArthur for this 85-year-old Jersey City-based multidisciplinary visionary, artist, and poet. Here, Gerald Jackson's handmade, cobbled-together clothes-of-many-colors hang on mannequins. Let the patterns, colors, and textures sizzle the eye and scintillate the mind. These amazing garments look like they could cast spells, protect armies, or make anyone walk in grace. Behold a seer-designer in our midst.
